PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION

THE object of this work is to furnish a comprehensive Index to the case law of India as laid down in the reported decisions of the High Courts and Privy Council, analogous to that already compiled of the statute-law It would perhaps be too much to hope that this object has been fully attained, but I can at least claim for it that it goes further towards success in that attainment than any previous work of the kind in India I shall be satisfied with this attempt towards such an end if it be found in some degree useful to the Government in its legislation, to the judicial officers of Government, and last, but by no means least, to the members of all the branches of the profession to which I have the honour to belong

The work contains the gist of the cases reported in 166 volumes of Reports extending over a period of fifty years,—viz, from 1836 to 1886 Besides the reports published in India, it contains the cases in Moore's Indian Appeals, without which, of course, no digest of Indian cases would be complete, and also such cases from the Law Reports, Indian Appeals, as are not reported in the Indian reports The names of the reports are set out in the annexed list showing the periods over which they extend, the decisions of what Court they contain, and the abbreviations used for them in the references throughout the Digest

With respect to a few of those volumes which have been reprinted, and in the later editions of which the paging is different from that in the original edition, I have given, wherever I could do so, both pagings I think this difference of paging will be found with respect only to the first and second volumes of the Bombay Reports, the first volume of the N-W Provinces Reports, and the Agra Full Bench volume

In some of the volumes—instances chiefly, however, confined to the Agra Reports—the paging is in some places manifestly incorrect, some pages having the same numbers In these cases I have generally given the page which would have been correct had the paging been correctly continued

In cases where it is not otherwise apparent that the case is a Privy Council or Full Bench decision, I have added in the reference the letters P C or F B, as the case may be, to indicate this It should be noticed that all the cases in the Supplemental Volume of the Bengal Law Reports are Full Bench cases This is not the case, however, with the Full Bench volume of the Weekly Reporter, containing cases decided in 1862-63, the letters W. R., F. B., therefore merely represent the abbreviation of the name of that volume, and do not necessarily imply that the case to which they are appended is a Full Bench case. In fact, as all the Full Bench cases in that volume are reported elsewhere, cases to which the letters W. R., F. B., alone are appended are probably not Full Bench cases, though some of them may be decided by more than two Judges.

With the names of the cases I have had great difficulty,—a difficulty which, from the character of Indian names, is, it seems to me, almost impossible to overcome. The general rule I have followed has been to cut out from the commencement of the names all prefixes and titles. The principal of these are Shahzada, Shah, Maharajah, Maharani, Rajah, Rani, Nawab, Sahib, Sri, Sreemutty, Mussamat, Bibi, Thakoor, Syed, Moulvie, Moonshee, Mir, Mirza, Hadji, Sheikh, Baboo, Coomar, Cowar or Kooer and perhaps a few others. I have omitted these as far as possible with the object in view not only of greater brevity in the names, but also in order that, in the Index of Cases, names that are similar may come together, and not as they sometimes do in an index of names, some with the prefix or title and under one letter, and the same name without it under another letter. I have made exceptions to this rule only in cases where the name is given in the following form:—"Maharajah of Vizianagram," "Rajah of Shivagunga," "Nawab Nazim of Bengal," etc.

As to the spelling of the names, I found it hopeless to attempt any consistency, for the various volumes of reports go through all the possible variations in the manner of spelling any particular Indian name, and I came to the conclusion that it was best to spell the cases as they appear in the reports. Had I adhered in all cases to any one mode of spelling, the result would have been that any cases spelt in the report in a different way would probably never be found by looking in the Index of Cases, or, if discovered at all, only after much more expenditure of time and trouble than would be desirable, and such a method would, it seemed to me, lead in other ways to difficulty and confusion.

I at first intended to issue the work in not more than two volumes, but owing to the material having taken up more space in print than I imagined it would do and it being desirable not to have the volumes of a bulk inconvenient for ready use and reference, it has been decided to issue it in five volumes to be published successively, and, if possible, within the present year. To each volume will be appended a table of the headings contained in it, and the last volume will contain a list of all the cases contained in the five volumes. The pages will be continuous throughout the work.

PREFACE TO THE PRESENT EDITION

SINCE the issue of the first Digest, which included the decisions of the High Courts and Privy Council down to 1886 the Author brought out three separate volumes containing the cases from 1887—1889, 1890—1893 and 1894—1897, respectively The present edition is a consolidation of the previous Digests, with the addition of the rulings from 1898—1900 inclusive Its bulk has consequently increased to a very considerable extent A reference to the Table of Reports will show that the number of volumes of Reports digested is 241 as compared with 166 volumes digested in the first edition The first four numbers of the Calcutta Weekly Notes have also been incorporated as frequent reference is made to them in the Calcutta High Court An idea of the increase of the size of this edition may be gained from a comparison of the number of volumes and columns of the two editions Whereas the first Digest comprised five volumes including the Table of Cases, the present one is made up of five volumes of the Digest alone and has a separate volume for the Table of Cases In the former publication Volume I contained the letters A—D and consisted of 1,562 columns, the present Volume I contains A—C only, and runs into 2,054 columns In order to keep down the size of the volumes, the Author has been obliged in several places to omit lists of cases from cross references, thereby avoiding repetition, without, however impairing the value of the work The scheme and arrangement of the Digest remains the same but Act XXVI of 1867, which was put under the Stamp Acts, has been transposed to Court Fees, and Bombay Act I of 1865 now appears under the heading "Bombay Survey and Settlement Act I of 1865" Many separate minor headings have been brought under more general headings, and several sub headings have been somewhat verbally altered The vernacular terms and expressions which are scattered throughout the Reports are now printed in roman letters instead of italics, and some uniformity in their spelling has been observed

11. ———————— Damage to land by Cyclone—Right of under tenant to get rem ssion of rent—A landlord receiving r miss on from Government on account of damage d ne to his estate by a cyclone is not on that account bound to allow a r mission to his under tenants unless he received th form r on the understanding or agr ement that h would allow it in turn GOLUCK CHUNDER MYTEE v IARBUTTY CHURN DASS 15 W R., 167

12. ———————— Land less than stated in lease—Decree apportioning rent reserved in a mokurari lease to the land transferred—Lessee getting possession of less land than stated in lease—Act XI of 1859 s 54—Right of lessee to abatement of rent—A decree had determined that lands leased in m kurari to a lessee with a fixed rent thereon were less in extent than they were specified to be in the pottahs that comprised them the lessors not having title to the whole; and the lessee had obtained possession of the less estate:—Held th t the I ssee was entitled to a corresponding abatement of the r nt reserved. The r venue paying mehal within which were the lands subject to the mokurari such lands being shares of mouzahs therein was afterwards sold for arr ars under Act XI of 18 9 The purchaser at that sale was sued by the mokuraridar to make good her incumbrance under s 54 of the Act The lease was maintained by the decree that followed but only as to part of the shar s specified in the p ttahs and the lessee obtained possession of that part only In this suit for mesne profits br ught by the lessee against the pur haser s heir who filed a cross suit against her f r rent it was held that as the lessee had not proved that she having had possession under the l ase had been disposs ssed by the purchaser there had not bee an eviction in the proper sense of the word But when in her suit for possession part only was decreed to her and she was precluded by the result from getting a substantial part her position was the same as if she had been evicted She therefore had the same equity for an apportionment as if she had been evicted On the facts it was rightly foun d by the first Court that the leases were not t ken with knowledge on the part of the lessee that the title was a doubtful one IMAMBANDI BEGUM v KAMLESWARI PERSHAD

13 ——————— Error in measurement of land—Land found to be less than stated —A lease providing for enhancement if the lands are found on measurement to exceed the quantity stated in the lease does not necessarily give the right to abate if the lands are found to be less than that stated in the lease PAM KANT CHOWDHRY v BINDABUN CHUNDER GOPE [2 W R Act X, 71

14 ——————— Construction of pottah—Default of tenant.—Though a pottah provided for an abatement of defendant's rent if on measurement the land was found to be less than 140 bighas, yet it was held that if defendant came to be in possession of that less quantity by his own default and not that of the lessor the mere fact of defendant having been in possession of less than 140 bighas would not entitle him to an abatement SEETANATH BOSE v SHAMCHAND MITTER [17 W R, 418

15 ——————— Raiyat having paid no rent—Bengal Act VIII of 1869 s 19 —A raiyat who has held his land for a few months and paid no rent at all cannot sue for an abatement of rent on the ground that the land, on measurement is less than the quantity mentioned in his pottah BROJONATH KOONDOO CHOWDHRY v UNANT RAM DUTT 17 W R 440

16 ——————— Misrepresentation as to quantity of land.—In a suit by a patnidar to recover rent in accordance with the terms of a dar patni lease the defendant claimed an abatement of his patni rent on the ground that his predecessor had obtained such abatement in a previous rent suit in which it appeared that the lessor's share was slightly less than what was described in the lease Held that unless the defendant could show that he had been damaged by the plaintiff's misrepresentation as to the extent of his share he could not be relieved from his contract in this form of suit at least GOUR MOHUN ROY v RADHA KOMUN SINGH 21 W R 372

17 ——————— Delay in suing —In 1859 G entered into negotiations with respect to the purchase of a certain talukh at a premium of R42 411 and an annual rent of R480 0 and in January 1860 he signed a sale bond which contained an enumeration of the mouzahs purchased the actual sale being completed on the 2nd June following Until his death in December 1861 he paid the stipulated rent according to the terms of the deed. Subsequently his widow brought a suit for abatement of the rent on the ground that her husband had been misled as to the amount of rent payable by the under tenants Held (affirming the decision of the High Court of Calcutta) that under the circumstances the suit could not be maintained. DABIMBYA DEBBYA v NILMONEY SINGH DEO 5 C L R 465

18 ——————— Act X of 1859 ss 18 and 23 cl 3 —S 18 Act X of 1859 is not applicable to a case in which a plaintiff patnidar sues for an abatement of rent on the ground of fraud caused by the concealment from him of the existence of an intermediate tenure created by the zemindar Cl 3 s 23 of that Act is wide enough to admit of such a suit being tried by the Revenue Courts SHOKOOR ALI v UMOLA AHALYA [8 W R 504

19 ——————— Denial of right to assess lands in tenure —A suit in which the plaintiff alleges that rent was wrongly assessed on him for lands not covered by his pottah and contends that in assessing his rent these lands should be included is not in the nature of a suit for abatement of rent ODHOY GOBIND CHOWDHRY v KENNY 8 W R, 518

20 ——————— Breach of Contract—Jurisdiction of Civil Court —In a suit for damages by a lessee where the plaint shows a distinct prayer for abatement of rent and also sets forth as the main ground of the suit a fraudulent breach of contract by misrepresentation and refusal of deduction and refund stipulated for so much of the claim as refers to abatement is by cl 3 s 23 Act X of 1859 beyond the jurisdiction of the Civil Court but the rest of the suit is properly cognizable by such Court NILMONY SINGH v ISSUR CHUNDER GHOSAL 9 W R 92

21 ——————— Reduction of rent payable by landlord to Government—Act X of 1859 ss 17 and 18 —Ss 17 and 18 were passed for the benefit of the raiyat and not for the protection of the zemindar S 18 was intended to give the raiyat a right to abatement in certain cases but not to protect the zemindar from liability to make abatement in any other case In a suit for abatement of rent on the ground that the jumma payable to Government had been reduced upon condition that the rents of the raiyats should be reduced in a like proportion —Held that the right to abatement applies only to the case of rents of which the amount had been fixed before the jumma was reduced by Government and not to rents fixed by pottahs or kabuliats entered into subsequently SUKHAWATOOLLAH v PUTHOO GOLDAR 1 Ind. Jur O S 7

22 ——————— Loss of portion of land—Suit for declaration of liability to pay less rent—Equitable relief—A suit by a tenant against his original lessors for a declaration that he is not liable to pay them the whole rent payable under his pottah in consequence of a third person having subsequently to the grant of such pottah by suit established a right to a share of the rent is not a suit for abatement of rent But where under such circumstances, the tenant is holding more land than is covered by his pottah it is not necessary that his landlords if desirous of enhancing the rent should be referred to a separate suit for that purpose The suit of the tenant being for equitable relief the claim of the landlords must be taken into consideration in determining what relief the plaintiff is entitled to obtain CHANDMONI DASI v. LOKE NATH CHATTERJEE 6 C. L. R., 494

23. ——— Land taken for public purposes—Suit to recover share of money taken as compensation for land.—In a suit to recover the proportion of money paid into Court as compensation for land taken for a railway to which the plaintiff, a dar-patnidar, may be entitled and in which suit the zemindar and patnidar are defendants, the plaintiff cannot claim abatement of rent under Act X of 1859, s. 18, since such a claim is cognizable only in a suit instituted under that Act. GORDON STUART & CO. v. MOHATAB CHAND [Marsh. 490

24. ——— Claim to deduction from rent.—A claim for rent being a recurring cause of action, a tenant is entitled to set up against it for any particular year any right which he had to a deduction or abatement notwithstanding that he has paid full rent for several previous years. When land is taken away for railway purposes and compensation made which is divided between the zemindar and those holding under him, any deduction of rent claimed from the zemindar must be reckoned with reference not to the gross amount of compensation but to the proportion which passed into his hands. MOHATAB CHAND v. CHITTRO COOMAREE BIBEE 16 W. R., 201

25. ——— In a suit for rent by a zemindar against a patnidar, the latter claimed abatement of the rent on the ground that part of the land included in the patni tenure had been acquired by the Government for public purposes. The kabuliat executed by the patnidar contained a provision to the effect that if any of the land settled should be taken up by Government for public purposes, the zemindar and the patnidar should divide and take in equal shares the compensation money, and a further provision to the effect that the patnidar should make no objection on the score of diluvion or any other cause to pay the rent fixed or reserved by this kabuliat. Held that the patnidar was entitled to abatement of the rent. UMA SUNKUR SIRKAR v. TARINI CHUNDER

26. ——— Ijara Settlement—Deduction from Rent.—An ijaradar took on lease certain lands, giving a kabuliat which contained the following clause:— In regard to the aforesaid rent we take upon ourselves the risk of flood and drought, of death and flight, of alluvion and diluvion, of profit and loss. In no case shall we be able to claim a reduction in the rent, nor will it be open to you to demand more on account of alluvion, etc. During the lease part of these lands were taken up by Government for the purpose of a railway, and compensation was paid to the lessor therefor. The ijaradar claimed to make a deduction from his rent for the land taken away from him. Held that such a claim did not come under the meaning of the word "abatement" as used in the rent law, nor was it intended by the parties to be within the clause of the lease, but the land having been taken from the whole area demised, not by natural causes, but by vis major, the ijaradar was entitled to a deduction from the rent on his showing that there were tenants of his on the land who, before the land was taken by Government, paid rent to him which they had now ceased to pay. 28. ——— Proceedings under Land Acquisition Act, 1870—Purchase at sale for arrears of rent—Beng. Reg. VIII of 1819.—Portion of certain land held under a patni having been taken up by the Government for public purposes under the Land Acquisition Act, the zemindar declared his intention of granting no abatement of rent, and acting upon this declaration the patnidar was allowed to appropriate the whole of the compensation. The patni was subsequently sold under Regulation VIII of 1819, with notice of the amount of the original rent, and the purchaser now sued for abatement of that rent. He did not allege that he had no notice of the proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act. Held that the plaintiff must be presumed to have had notice of these proceedings, and that it was therefore incumbent upon him to have made inquiry regarding the position of the patni, and that under the circumstances he was not entitled to the abatement sought for. PEARI MOHUN MUKERJEE v. AUDHIRAJ AFTAB CHAND [10 C. L. R., 526

29. ——— Previous suit for abatement, effect of—Onus probandi.—There is no provision in the Rent Law prescribing that suits for enhancement or abatement shall not be brought within a certain period after the determination of a similar suit on the same grounds. And there is no provision throwing upon a plaintiff in a suit for abatement of rent the burden of proof that there has been some change in circumstances since a decision in a previous similar suit was passed. 2 ———— Cause of action—Evidence of the existing debt—Fresh contract—Interest—Damdupat—In June 1883 the plaintiff's father advanced a loan to the defendant at compound interest The account of this debt with interest was adjusted and signed from time to time In June 1893 it was adjusted and signed the amount found due being R28 8 0 In February 1896 the plaintiff sued to recover this amount Held that the account (ruzukhata) was merely an acknowledgment of the debt and of the correctness of the calculation of interest upon it Held also that the plaintiff was not entitled to treat the amount so found due as principal and to claim interest upon it The debt to be sued on was the amount originally advanced and the interest recoverable was limited by that amount according to the rule of damdupat By English law an account stated could be sued on as implying a promise to pay Formerly this was the rule also in Bombay (as shown by the earlier cases) where the account was signed If however it was not signed it could not be sued on as a new contract The Indian Limitation Act required an acknowledgment or admission of a debt to be signed and an admission not made in the manner prescribed by law (i e signed) for the purpose of preventing a debt from becoming barred does not imply a promise to pay it if it should become barred According however to the later authorities an account stated or adjusted (ruzukhata) cannot be sued on as a fresh contract The suit must be brought in respect of the original transaction and the subsequent stated or adjusted accounts are only evidence of the debt arising from them and serve to prevent the operation of the Act of Limitation SHANKAR v MUKTA [I L R, 22 Bom, 513

power of Court to question inference from fact in—Omission of the Appellate Court to take into consideration circumstances affecting landlord's acquiescence—A landlord by merely not objecting to his tenant's raising a pucca building does not confer on the tenant a permanent right to remain on the land. But long possession coupled with the acquiescence of the landlord in the raising of pucca buildings and his continuing to receive rent from the raiyat after such buildings have been raised may justify the inference that a tenant has a permanent right Zeshwada Bai v Ram Chandra Takaram I L R, 18 Bom 66 referred to But there are circumstances which may go far to weaken the force of that inference and one of these is the circumstance of the landlord's interest being let out in ijara at the time the building was raised The absence of objection on the part of the landlord to the erection of a permanent building by a tenant during the continuance of an ijara of the landlord's interest should not be construed as amounting to acquiescence such as might be inferred where the landlord is in direct receipt of rent from the tenant Beni Madhub Banerjee v Joy Kissen Mookerjee 12 W R 495 distinguished. 26 ——— Law of landlord and tenant as to building by the tenant on the land—Acquiescence of lessor—Equitable estoppel preventing ejectment—Onus of proof—A lessor is not restrained by any rule of equity from bringing a suit to evict a tenant the term of whose lease has expired, merely by reason of that tenant's having erected permanent structures on the land leased such building having been within the knowledge of the lessor and there not having been any interference on his part to prevent it To raise an equitable estoppel against the lessor precluding him from suing on the determination of the tenancy for possession the tenant should show facts sufficient to justify the legal inference that the lessor has by plain implication contracted that the right of tenancy should be changed into a right of permanent occupancy Acquiescence by the lessor in this case was a legal inference to be drawn from such facts as were found The onus of establishing sufficient cause for an equitable estoppel had not been discharged by the tenant in this instance Ramsden v Dyson L R 1 E and I Ap 129 and s 108 of the Transfer of Property Act 1882 referred to BENI RAM v KUNDAN LAL

35 ——— Conduct defeating title—Evidence of ratification—The plaintiff a member of an undivided Hindu family sued to recover a parcel of land which he alleged his uncle the first defendant to have wrongly transferred to the second defendant The second defendant alleged a sale to him by the first defendant and a subsequent sale to the third defendant and denied the plaintiff s title The Munsif gave a decree for the plaintiff on appeal the Principal Sudder Amin finding that the plaintiff knew of the sale and treating the knowledge as evidence of acquiescence in it reversed the decision of the Munsif Held reversing the decision of the Principal Sudder Amin that such knowledge would not make the plaintiff a party to the sale by the first defendant so as to bar his right to recover the land for which he sued in ejectment A person who seeks to bar one who is prima facie the legal owner by evidence of ratification or of facts cogent enough to prove one not a formal to be a substantial party must make and prove such a case for he is one who seeks to displace a legal title RAJAN v BASUVA CHETTI [2 Mad 428

36 ——— Ratification of transfer of property—A solehnama in 1847 to which were parties the sons daughters and widow of a deceased Mahomedan proprietor transferred the shares of two minor daughters in their father s estate having been executed by their mother the widow on their behalf. On the question whether the solehnama should be set aside at the instance of the two daughters on the ground of its having been beyond their mother's power to bind them and of the instruments having been prejudicial to their interests the evidence showed that it had been acted on and followed by possession and that the daughters had after attaining full age allowed a lengthened period of twenty years to elapse without taking proceedings to dispute it—Held that if the mother had exceeded her powers in executing the solehnama on their behalf and if they might at one time have had it set aside their long acquiescence was sufficient to show ratification of the transaction; and the solehnama was

43 ——— Receipt of rent in lieu of grant of land.—In a suit to recover possession of land it appeared that the defendant's father had in 1801 obtained possession on a lease of 280 bighas from the Government of Kulabo and that the plaintiffs father had in 1806 obtained a grant of 10 unspecified bighas of the same land but that he never asked to have them marked out and given to him in specie and that he and subsequently his sons the plaintiffs were content up to the year 1856 to receive from the defendant's family in respect of their grant the rent formerly paid by them to the Government for the same The District Court reversed the decree of the Munsif and threw out the claim to recover possession of the land on the ground that the plaintiffs must be taken after such a lapse of time to have acquiesced in the arrangement that a yearly rent was to be received without any particular land being marked out as theirs Held that it was competent for the Assistant Judge to come to that conclusion under the circumstances and that there was no ground for saying that there was any error of law in his decision which was accordingly affirmed. Held, however on appeal by the Privy Council reversing the above decision that when a Court to which application has been made under s. 3 of Act XL of 1858 for a certificate has adjudged the applicant entitled to have one he then substantially obtains it although it may not be drawn up or issued at the time Having obtained such an order he has in substance complied with the terms of the Act in the same way as when a plaintiff has judgment that he shall have a decree in his suit it may be said that he has then obtained his decree Therefore when a minor had been represented in a suit by a person who had obtained an order for a certificate under s 3 but had not had it issued to him the absence of a certificate was held to be not such an irregularity as entitled the minor on coming of age to have the proceedings set aside on the ground that he had not been properly represented MUGNIRAM MARWARI v GURSAHAI NAND LIAKUT HOSSEIN v GURSAHAI NAND I L R 17 Calc 347

Hindu family applied for and (in the presence of the defendants) obtained leave to institute a suit against the defendants, who were the shebaits of a certain idol for the purpose of having them removed from their office on the ground of misconduct. In their plaint they alleged that the endowment was a public one all Hindus having a common right of worshipping the idol. This was denied by the defendants. After issues had been framed the Court of first instance made an order under s 16 of the Act referring certain of them to arbitration although the defendants contended that as the endowment was not a public one the Act had no application and objected to the reference. The arbitrators made an award finding inter alia that the idol was the ancestral family idol of the parties to the suit and that the endowment was not made for the benefit of the public. They further in their award laid down certain definite rules according to which the sheba ought to be conducted and repairs to the temple made. The Court of first instance passed a decree on that award declaring that the idol was the ancestral idol of both parties and directing that the defendants should perform the worship in a certain manner and should execute certain repairs to the temple within six months and declaring that if the parties did not act as directed any member of the family should be able to bring a suit for the appointment of a manager. Against that decree the defendants appealed and contended that the Act did not apply to the case on the finding of facts as to the endowment not being a public one that the compulsory reference to arbitration was illegal and void and that the decree was not one authorised by the terms of s 14 of the Act. Held that on the facts as found by the arbitrators Act XX of 1863 did not apply to the case and that the compulsory reference to arbitration and the decree made thereon were illegal and void. Held further that the decree itself was bad on the ground that it was not one coming within the scope of s 14 of the Act. 17 ———— Suspension and dismissal of trustee of a temple—Powers of temple committee—The plaintiff was appointed to the office of trustee of a Hindu temple under Religious Endowments Act 1863 s 3 by the temple committee constituted under that Act. Subsequently the committee having received certain complaints against him suspended him from office pending inquiry without calling on him for an explanation. They alleged as the grounds of his suspension that he had caused loss of property and money to the temple and that he had conducted things in the temple contrary to custom so as to cause a disturbance of the peace. The trustee refused to acquiesce in the order of suspension and to give up certain records etc which he was by that order required to deliver and denied the authority of the committee as asserted by them. Shortly afterwards the committee dismissed him. The plaintiff denying that his suspension and dismissal were legal brought two suits against the members of the committee the first for damages for the suspension and the second for an injunction to restrain the defendants from interfering with the discharge of his duties as trustee. Both of these suits were dismissed and the plaintiff preferred appeals to the High Court. In the appeal relating to the claim for an injunction it was found that no misconduct had been proved against the plaintiff previous to the order of suspension. Held by SHEPHARD and DAVIES JJ that a trustee in the position of the plaintiff cannot be dismissed from office except for good cause shown and that his conduct subsequent to the order of suspension did not amount to such good cause. In the appeal relating to damages —Held by SHEPHARD J that the order of suspension was illegal and that under the circumstances the plaintiff was entitled to substantial damages. Held by DAVIES J (finding that the committee had proceeded in the bonâ fide belief that they were acting for the good of the temple in suspending the plaintiff pending inquiry) that the order of suspension was not illegal and that the suit was rightly dismissed. Owing to the difference of opinion between the two Judges the last mentioned appeal was referred to the Chief Justice under Civil Procedure Code s 575 and was heard by him sitting with the two other Judges —Held by COLLINS C J and SHEPHARD J (DAVIES J diss) that the order of suspension was illegal and the plaintiff was entitled to substantial damages. Per COLLINS C J—The power of suspension by the committee is in my judgment the same as the power of dismissal. The committee having made due inquiry and having called on the trustee for an explanation may suspend for good and sufficient cause but not otherwise. 1 ———— s 18—Leave to sue—Public and private endowments—Reg XIX of 1810—Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Suit to remove mutualli—A Mahomedan lady executed a wakf nama purporting to dedicate the whole of her property to an imambara in her house for the purpose of perpetuating various Shiah ceremonies. By the wakf nama she constituted herself joint mutwalli with one B and caused the names of herself and B as mutwallis to be substituted in the Collector's register for her own name as owner. On the death of B A acted as the sole mutwalli. The wakfnama was publicly registered. But though the property was styled wakf and A the mutwalli thereof in all documents connected with the estate A all along continued to deal with it as absolute proprietress and the dedication though made in 185 was never under the control of the Board of Revenue or of local agents. In a suit which the plaintiffs obtained leave to institute under s 18 of Act XX of 1863 to remove A from the mutwalliship on the ground of misfeasance —Held the wakfnama did not constitute a public religious establishment within the meaning of Act XX of 1863 and that therefore the Judge below had no authority to give the plaintiffs under s 18 leave to sue and that his decision was consequently ultra vires. S 18 of Act XX of 1863 applies only to such religious establishments as were under the control or superintendence

2 ——— Arrest under Beng Reg III of 1818—Jurisdiction of Municipal Courts—A Mahomedan subject of the Crown was arrested in Calcutta taken into the mofussil and there detained in jail under a warrant of the Governor General in Council in the form prescribed by Reg III of 1818 Held that such arrest and detainer were not acts of State but matters cognizable by a Municipal Court IN RE AMEER KHAN 6 B L R. 392

3 Resumption of Jagir by East India Company—Regulation law—Where lands were held by a jagirdar under the sovereign of an independent State on a jaidad tenure i e on a grant of land together with the public revenues thereof on the condition of keeping up a body of troops to be employed when called on in the service of the sovereign and on the conquest of the State by the East India Company the jagirdar remained in the same position to the Company—Held that the resumption of the lands by the Company and the seizure of the arms and stores appertaining to the tenure on the death of the jagirdar was not an act of State and therefore the Municipal Courts had jurisdiction to entertain a suit by the representatives of the jagirdar against the Government for the possession of the land and for the value of the arms and stores This was so although at the time of the resumption the Regulation law was not introduced into the territories in which the jagir was comprised FORRESTER v SECRETARY OF STATE

4. ——— Confiscation of territories of King of Delhi—Act of State—The status of the King of Delhi was that of a King recognized by the British Government and the confiscation of his territories in 1857 was an act of State, and not an act done under color of any legal right of which a Municipal Court could take cognizance His tenure of the territories assigned him by the Government was a tenure merely durante regno and no power was conferred upon him of creating incumbrances which would survive his deposition The word confiscation does not necessarily import that the appropriation is to be made as a penalty for a crime nor when used in that sense does it necessarily imply that the forfeiture has accrued upon conviction but it may also be properly used as applicable to appropriations of property by Government as an act of State SALIGRAM v SECRETARY OF STATE

5 ——— Confiscation by Governor of Foreign State—Title to timber—The plaintiff brought a suit at Tonghoo in British Burma to recover possession of certain timber which he alleged the defendants had wrongfully and in collusion with the Burmese Governor of Ninghan taken out of his possession in foreign territory and removed to Tonghoo The defendants stated that they had acquired the timber from the Governor of Ninghan in terms of an agreement between them and the Burmese Government It appeared that the Governor of Ninghan had confiscated the plaintiff's timber in contravention of a royal mandate After the institution of the suit the defendants removed the timber from Tonghoo to Rangoon Held that a British Municipal Court might enquire into the character of the act of the Governor of Ninghan and was not bound to accept it as an act of State BOMBAY BURMAH TRADING CORPORATION v MAHOMED ALI SHERAGEE 10 B L R. 345 19 W R., 123

6 ——— Resumption by Government—Act of State—Jurisdiction of Civil Court—By the treaty of the 31st July 1801 between the then Nawab of the Carnatic and the Governor in Council at Madras the sovereign rights of the Nawab in the Carnatic were vested in the East India Company Held that a resumption by the Madras Government of a jagir granted by former Nawabs as Altamghah inam before the date of the treaty and a re grant by Madras Government to another for a life estate only was such an act of sovereign power by the East India Company as precluded the Supreme Court at Madras from taking cognizance of a suit by the heirs of the original grantee in respect of such resumption EAST INDIA COMPANY v SYEDALLY 7 Moore s I. 10 ——— Resumption of inam village and re grant Effect of—Waikars Status of—Treaties of 1820—Effect of grant of inam under construction—Attachment by Government of such village Effect of—From the year 1820 down to the year 1872 the Waikar family had been in the enjoyment of the village of Pasarni under a treaty between the East India Company and one M A and K M who were brothers and the last male descendants of M For an alleged fraud of K M Government restricted the enjoyment of the said village to his lifetime only A predeceased K On the death of K M Government on the 31s December 1872 placed an attachment over the village On the 13th July 1874 a judgment creditor of A caused the lands in dispute which were mirasi lands of the Waikar family situated at Pasarni, to be sold in execution of his decree against A and they were purchased by the defendant who was put in possession on the 22nd April 1876 In the meanwhile Government having chosen to recognise the plaintiff as a representative of the Waikar family had removed the attachment and re granted the village to the plaintiff shortly before ... on the 3rd April 1876 The plaintiff being dispossessed sued the defendant contending (inter alia) that A having predeceased his brother had no interest in the lands which had been purchased by the defendant The Court of first instance awarded the plaintiff s claim and directed the defendant to pay the plaintiff's costs The defendant appealed to the District Judge who was of opinion that the proceedings of Government since the attachment in 1872 and restoration of the village were acts of State and he varied the decree of the lower Court by cutting down the plaintiff s

costs made payable by the lower Court's decree to half On appeal by the defendant to the High Court held reversing the decree of the Lower Appellate Court that the plaintiff s claim should be dismissed The attachment placed by Government on the death of K M in December 1872 was limited to an exemption from assessment and the resumption and re grant to the plaintiff did not give the plaintiff any title to the lands in question The proceedings of Government in 1873 and 1876 by which the plaintiff was recognised as the representative of the Waikar family were not acts of State The status of the Waikars and other persons with whom the agreements of 1820 were entered into was not that of an independent sovereign They (the Waikars) were merely powerful saranjamdars subordinate to the Raja of Satara and after the annexation of the territory of the Raja in 1849 they held their lands under the East India Company Secretary of State for India v Narayan Balvant Bhsle Printed Judgments 1883 p 244 distinguished. 1 ——— Owner indirectly impleaded—Towage contract—Vice Admiralty—The M S a steam tug was hired to tow the barque N down the Hughli and in consequence of the negligence of the master of the tug whilst so employed and of his wilful disobedience to the order of the pilot on board the N the latter ran foul of a sailing vessel the S F considerable damage being done to both sailing vessels The S F took proceedings against the N for the damage sustained and an action in rem was brought (pending the proceedings taken by the S F) by the N against the tug to recover damages including any damages that the N might have to pay to the owners of the S F The defence set up by the tug was protection under its towage contract which was to the effect that the proprietors of the tug should not be responsible under any circumstances for any loss or damage to any vessel whilst in tow of the tug whether the same should have happened through the default of the master or other sailors etc of the tug or through the incompetence or want of skill of the pilot in charge The Court below held that the accident was due to the wilful disobedience of the master of the tug in not obeying the pilot on board the N and that such misconduct was a default within the meaning of the clause in the towage contract but inasmuch as the action was one in rem and not against the proprietors the clause was no answer to the suit Held on appeal that the clause was a sufficient answer for that although in every case of a proceeding in rem the suit is directly against the ship itself still the owner of the ship must always be considered as indirectly impleaded THE MARY STUART v THE NEVADA

14. ——— Succession Act (X of 1865) s 202—Estate of intestate Native Christian—Suit for partition of estate by purchaser of widow's share before completion of administration—Dismissal of suit—Only remedy by way of administration suit—A person to whom the Indian Succession Act 1865 applied having died intestate in April 1884 his widow and son were in September of the same year granted letters of administration which were cancelled for want of stamp duty a fresh grant being made on 19th January 1885 Plaintiff alleging that the said widow had executed a promissory note in her favour in September 1884 filed a suit against her on 6th January 1885 and there being no appearance of the defendant obtained an ex parte decree In execution of the decree so obtained plaintiff attached portions of the estate of the deceased and brought them to sale becoming herself the purchaser of the one third share of the widow in each lot sold. In March 1885 the son was appointed sole administrator in January 1888 he died and the letters of administration were revoked in consequence and the amin of the District Court was appointed administrator of the estate until October 1894 when the son's widow was so appointed in his stead Plaintiff now sued for partition of the property comprised in the estate of the deceased in order that she might obtain delivery of the portions of it which she had purchased in execution of the decree against the widow previously obtained as aforesaid The estate of the deceased had never been administered or distributed The defence was that the said previous decree had been obtained by fraud —Held that under s 44 of the Indian Evidence Act the defendants were entitled to set up this defence and that the property of the deceased having become vested in his administrator under the Indian Succession Act it remained so vested until the administrator had distributed the estate and that in consequence the widow had no saleable interest in any part of the estate until in the course of the administration thereof her share had been determined and allotted to her Until such allotment (which had not yet taken place) the only process by which plaintiff could legally claim the widow's interest in the estate was by a suit for the administration of the estate to which suit the widow if alive would be a necessary party If not alive letters of administration to her estate would be necessary the administrator being made a party Held also that the suit could not be treated as an administration suit SHIRANGAMMAL v SANTHAMMAL

There is nothing in s 35 of the Administrator General's Act (II of 1874) which qualifies or restricts or otherwise interferes with the right of a creditor to demand immediate payment of his claim in full when the realizable assets in the hands of the Administrator General are sufficient for the immediate payment of all claims in full The rateable payment referred to in the above section as well as in s 282 of the Succession Act (X of 1865) and in s 104 of the Probate and Administration Act (V of 1881) is rateable payment out of the assets it is nowhere provided that it shall be made out of the nett income of the estate or any other specific part of the assets. The language ('shall be liable to pay the costs') used in cl 1 of s 35 of the Administrator General's Act (II of 1874) shows that it was intended not to impose upon a creditor to whom the condition of exemption was inapplicable an absolute obligation to pay the costs of the suit but to leave a discretion to the Court to relieve him of the obligation if the circumstances of the case required it James v Young L R 27 Ch D 662 referred to OMRITA NATH MITTER v ADMINISTRATOR GENERAL OF BENGAL I. the commencement of the suit GOUR LALL SINGH v MOHESH NARAIN GHOSE 14 W R. 484

57 ——— Admission by zamindar of mokurari right—Where tenants sued for a declaration that their holding was mokurari at a given rent and the surburakar of their zamindar admitted their right on behalf of the zamindar who himself filed a petition corroborating his surburakar's statement it was held that these admissions would bind any subsequent zamindar not being an auction purchaser at a sale for arrears of Government revenue WATSON & CO v NOBIN MOHUN BABU [10 W R. 72

58 ——— Admission by auction purchaser—Admission of title indirectly —Where an auction purchaser in a proceeding before the Collector for the purpose of charging an estate withstands a claim to a mokurari tenure advanced by a tenant but does not otherwise subsequently legally question the tenant's title the presumption arises that that title has been allowed by the auction purchaser CHOONEE MAHTOON v CHATOO MAHTOON [25 W R. 231

59 ——— Admission of lessor—Lessor and lessee —The admission of a lessor does not bind a lessee in certain cases in which a bond fide act might have bound. SUTRODGHUN DUTT v BROJO GOPAL GHOSE 3 W R. 143

60 ——— Admission of tenancy—Evidence of tenancy —A mere admission by the defendant of plaintiff having purchased a putnee is insufficient to prove that he ever was defendant's tenant BAKUR ALI CHOWDHRY v ASHKUR ALI [5 W R. 156

61 ——— Admission by raiyat—Evidence of rate of rent—Similar tenures —An admission by one raiyat as to the rate of rent at which he holds is not evidence to prove the rate at which another holds NURROHURRY MOHATO v NARAINEE DOSSEE [1 Ind. Jur O S, 9 W R. F B 23

62. ——— Admission of rate of rent—In a suit for arrears of rent at enhanced rates if plaintiff asks for rates admitted by defendant he must abide by those intended to be admitted and if he desire to take advantage of the finding of the Lower Court he must submit to the whole finding taken altogether SOORENDRONATH ROY v BHAIRUB MUNDUL 14 W R. 462

63 ——— Return of amount of rent made to Collector—Rate of rent Evidence of—A return made to a Collector by an occupant of land stating the amount of the rent is an admission as to the amount of rent binding upon the occupant and all who claim under him AJUDH BEHAREE SINGH v RAM ROY TEWARI 18 W R. 105

64. ——— Rate of rent Evidence of—Presumption from silence of defendant on rate of rent as object on —In a suit for a kabuliat at enhanced rates after notice under s 13 Act X of 1859 where the defendants at Jly and, though he raising a good many objections on other points raised no question as to rates their conduct and pleadings were held to afford a fair presumption of the admission of the plaintiff's claim as to the rates sued for THAKOOR DUTT SINGH v GOPAL SINGH 14 W R. 4

65 ——— Consideration for sale—Suit for presumption —The mere admission of the vendor that an old debt of Rs 50 mentioned in the sale deed formed part of the consideration is not conclusive evidence of the allegation as against parties claiming a right of presumption PEERA v SHIMBHU [2 Agra 348

3 MISCELLANEOUS CASES

66 ——— Verbal admissions as to sum due by defendant—It is a very dangerous thing for a Court to decree in favour of a plaintiff merely upon alleged verbal admissions by the defendant of a sum due without the most clear and cogent proof of such admissions especially when the plaintiff shrinks from bringing his accounts into Court LALLA SHEO PARSHAD v JUGGERNATH L R 10 I A, 74

67 ——— Admission of receipt of purchase money—Registration Act 1866 s 66 cl 3 —An admission before a Registrar of the receipt of purchase money attested by his endorsement as required by cl 3 s 66 Act XX of 1866 though evidence of the strongest and most reliable description ought not to be treated as conclusive In the face of such admission however the party seeking to get out of its effects must make out his case by very clear evidence MAHOMED HANEEF MEAJEE v MOZHUR ALI 15 W R. 280

68 ——— Admission in a mortgage as to amount of land excepted from its operation—Debutter land within the limits of a revenue paying mouzah which had been mortgaged by the defendants to a predecessor in title of the plaintiff was exempted from the mortgage the deed specifying the number of bighas making the area of the debutter Against a plaintiff who made title to the mortgaged mouzah and claimed possession of all of it that had passed by the mortgage the mortgagors set up that there was more debutter in the mouzah than the deed had specified the intention of the parties to the deed having been to exempt what ever debutter there actually was —Held that the statement in the deed as to the quantity of the debutter was a deliberate admission imposing upon the mortgagors who had made it the burden of proving that it was untrue or that they were not bound by it also that the Subordinate Judge's finding that the defendants had not given proof sufficient to discharge themselves of this was correct JARAO KUMARI v LALONMONI I. 70 ——— False statement by defendant —A plaintiff cannot take advantage of a statement made by a defendant which at most amounts to a piece of evidence and not to an admission but which is found to be untrue unless it be shown that the status of the plaintiff had been affected or that he had been misled by such statement GRISH CHUNDER GHOSE v ISSAR CHUNDER MOOKERJEE [3 B L R A C 337 12 W R 226

71. ——— Mitigation of effect of admission—Showing nature of transaction when made —Where a defendant seeks to make use of statements which have been put in evidence and to treat them as admissions by the plaintiff who put them in it is competent for the plaintiff to show the real nature of the transaction to which they relate and to get rid of the effect of the apparent admissions LUTEEFOONISSA v GOOR SURUN DASS PHOOL BIBEE v GOOR SURUN DASS 18 W R 485

72. ——— Showing real nature of transaction —A party claiming under another who has made admissions as to a transaction to which that other was a party is at liberty to allege and prove that the admissions were made with a fraudulent purpose and were not true and to show the real nature of the transaction SREENATH ROY v BINDOO BASHINEE DEBIA 20 W R 112

73 ——— Effect of admissions not acted on—Admissions by person who afterwards adopts another —A party is not concluded by his own representations unless they have been acted upon by the opposite party If treated merely as admissions not acted upon it may be shown by the party who made them that they were not true Quære—What is the effect of admissions made by a person who subsequently adopts another in binding the person adopted? BROJENDRO COOMAR ROY CHOWDHRY v CHAIRMAN OF THE DACCA MUNICIPALITY [20 W R 223

74. ——— Admission not acted on—Decision opposed to admission —A mere admission is not conclusive It is so only in certain cases —e g where it has been acted upon by the party to whom it was made Thus a statement made in a former suit in which the Court so far from acting upon it passed a decree opposed to it cannot be treated as conclusive An admission made by defendants ancestor may be evidence of some weight that may be used against them but it is only evidence upon which the Court which is trying the suit may act or not according as it considers it ought to have effect given to it JANAN CHOWDHRY v DOOLAR CHOWDHRY [18 W R 347

[3 C L. R. 410

9 ——— Proof of adultery—Sexual intercourse—Presumption of knowledge that woman is married —In a case of adultery sexual intercourse must be proved the sexual intercourse required for adultery being the same identical thing as the sexual intercourse required for rape The difference lies in the mode of proof in rape no presumption of sexual intercourse can be made in adultery it can be from evidence pointing strongly to an inference of guilt It is not necessary therefore that there should be direct evidence of an act of adultery nor that the adulterer should know whose wife the woman is provided he knew she was a married woman QUEEN v MADHUB CHUNDER GIRI 21 W R. AJMERE COURTS REGULATION (I of 1877)

——— s. 18 et seq—Reference by Commissioner of Ajmere—Powers of High Court—Jurisdiction—Held that where a point of law or a question as to the construction of a document is referred to the High Court by an order purporting to be made under s 18 of the Ajmere Courts Regulation the High Court cannot consider whether the point referred arises in the case in which the reference before it has been made or not but its functions are limited to pronouncing an opinion on any point which may be so referred to it KALIAN MAL v RAM KISHEN I L. R. 21 All. 163

——— ss. 17 18 21, 36 37—Reference to the High Court by the Chief Commissioner of Ajmere and Mairwara—Reference to Chief Commissioner by Commissioner of Ajmere—Appeal from Commissioner's decree made in accordance with Chief Commissioner's judgment—On an appeal from a decision in a civil suit of the Assistant Commissioner of Ajmere to the Commissioner of Ajmere the latter feeling doubtful on a question of the nature specified in s 17 of the Ajmere Courts Regulation I of 1877 referred such question, under s 36 of that Regulation to the Chief Commissioner of Ajmere and Mairwara. The Chief Commissioner dealt with the case as prescribed in s. 37 of the Regulation and returned it to the Commissioner who dismissed the suit in accordance with the Chief Commissioner's judgment The plaintiff preferred an appeal to the Chief Commissioner from the Commissioner's decision The Chief Commissioner did not make any order on the memorandum of appeal admitting it or directing that it should be registered or that the respondent should be summoned or that the appellant should appear on a certain day under s 551 of Act X of 1877 but issued a notice to the appellant's counsel to appear on a certain day The appellant's counsel appeared on that day and the Chief Commissioner intimated that he was acting under s 551 of Act X of 1877 The appellant's counsel then proceeded to address the Chief Commissioner and was heard for some time and then stopped in consequence of the Chief Commissioner resolving to refer to the High Court the question whether the appeal from the Commissioner's decision lay to him or to Her Majesty in Council The Chief Commissioner subsequently referred such question to the High Court Held by the Full Bench (SPANKIE J dissenting) on a reference by the Division Bench before which the Chief Commissioner's reference came that such question arose in the trial of an appeal within the meaning of s 21 of the Ajmere Courts Regulation I of 1877 and was properly referred to the High Court Held by the Division Bench (SPANKIE J and STRAIGHT J) that the appeal from the Commissioner's decision lay in this particular case not to the Chief Commissioner but to Her Majesty in Council THAKUR OF MASUDA v THE WIDOWS OF THE THAKUR OF NANDWARA I. Where, however, any fact can be proved by evidence taken otherwise than on the spot, that evidence ought to be taken by the Court itself in a regular manner, and not by an Ameen. Quære—Whether, where an Ameen has in fact been, though improperly, deputed and has examined witnesses, that evidence ought to be totally rejected. 57 ——————Land Acquisition Act (X of 1870) s 15 —District Judge's order on reference by the Collector—Questions of conflicting claims to title—Persons claiming interest in the compensation— Apportionment construction of the term —A Collector having acquired land under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act (X of 1870) and a question having arisen as to the right to the compensation —each of two rival claimants claiming exclusive title to the whole of the compensation awarded —the Collector referred the question to the decision of the District Judge under s 15 of the Act The District Judge having decided the question in favour of one of the claimants the other appealed to the High Court In appeal it was contended that as the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act apply to cases in which there was a dispute as to the apportionment of compensation and not to cases in which there was no question as to apportionment and in which each of the claimants laid claim to the entire amount of the compensation the order passed by the District Judge was not appealable under the provisions of the Act as there was no question of apportionment to be determined —Held that looking to the language of s 15 of the Land Acquisition Act (X of 1870) which clearly contemplates the reference of such a dispute being provided for in the subsequent part of the Act and as there is no other provision in the Act made for it the term apportionment in Part IV should be given a liberal construction, as including the case where the Court has to decide between rival claimants to the entire compensation.

The Munsif found the objections against them and allowed the purchaser to execute the decree. Held that the question was one between the parties to the suit or their representatives relating to the execution, discharge, or satisfaction of the decree and that the decision of that question was a decree under ss 2 and 244 of the Code and therefore appealable and a second appeal lay therefrom to the High Court. 1861 s 11—Party to suit—A female plaintiff obtained a decree against certain defendants declaring certain ekrarnamahs, etc., void as against her husband and his representatives. After his death she proceeded to execute the decree as one for possession and obtained an order under s. 223 Act VIII of 1859 for delivery of possession of property in the possession of a third party as being a person claiming under a title created by the defendants subsequently to the institution of the suit. The third party appealed from that order. Held that this was not a case in which an appeal lay under s 11 Act XXIII of 1861 inasmuch as the questions raised by the appeal were not questions between the parties to the suit. The decree holder attached and prepared to bring to sale certain villages of the judgment debtor. These villages were included in a mortgage subsequently executed by the judgment debtor in favour of third parties. Both before and after the mortgage the decree holder received from the zamindar certain sums in consideration of his agreeing to postponements of the sale also it was agreed between them at a date subsequent to the mortgage that interest should be computed at a higher rate than that provided by the decree. Subsequently the decree holder sought to bring the land to sale and in computing the amount then due gave credit for none of the sums so received and calculated interest at the enhanced rate. The mortgagee objected that the computation was erroneous in both these respects and the District Judge upheld his objection. The judgment debtor took no part in the contest. Held that the mortgagee was a representative of the judgment debtor within the meaning of the Civil Procedure Code s 244 and that an appeal lay against the order of the District Judge. such decree being the thing which by law is made appealable and nothing else that party has no right of appeal therefrom. If in the judgment of which such decree is the formal expression findings have been recorded upon some issues against that party and he desires to have formal effect given to them by the decree so as to allow of his filing objections thereto under s. 561 of the Civil Procedure Code or of appealing therefrom under s. 540 he must take steps under s. 206 to have the decree properly brought into conformity with the judgment so that there may be matter on the face of it to show that something has been decided against him but if he fails to take this course the decree though in general terms will stand good as finally deciding the issues raised by the pleadings upon which the ultimate determination of the cause and the decree itself rested The findings in a judgment upon matters which subsequently turn out to be immaterial to the grounds upon which a suit is finally disposed of as to the plaintiff's right to any portion of the relief sought by him as declared by the decree amount to no more than obiter dicta and do not constitute a final decision of the kind contemplated by s. 13 of the Civil Procedure Code Held also that in the present case the Judge was right in holding that the question as to the validity or otherwise of the deed of endowment was wholly immaterial The judgment of STRAIGHT J in Lachman Singh v Mohan I L R 4 All 497 approved and followed. Per OLDFIELD J contra that the decree to agree with the judgment and fulfil the requirements of s. 206 of the Civil Procedure Code should contain the material points for determination arising out of the claim and material for the decision thereon that if this has not been done the defect is a good ground of appeal notwithstanding that the decree on its face may be altogether in favour of the appellant and notwithstanding that he may not have applied for amendment of the decree under s. 206 or for review of judgment and that in the present case the defect in the decree would afford a good ground of appeal Per MAHMOOD J that inasmuch as the provisions of s. 13 of the Civil Procedure Code relate as well to the trial of issues as to the trial of suits and in the present case the validity or otherwise of the deed was a matter directly and substantially in issue between the parties, and was adjudicated upon the finding of the first Court upon that issue was not a mere obiter dictum but would be binding upon the defendant as res judicata notwithstanding the fact that the suit against her was dismissed on the ground that she held possession of the property in lieu of dower that whatever has the force of res judicata is necessarily appealable that the word from as used in s. 540 or s. 584 and the expression "objection to the decree in s. 561 refer not only to matters existing upon the face of the decree but also to those which should have existed, but do not exist there and that the defendant in the present case was aggrieved or injured by the omission in the decree of the first Court and was therefore entitled to file objections to it and for the same reason to appeal to the High Court from the decree of the lower Appellate Court Also per MAHMOOD J that it was doubtful whether the reliefs contemplated by ss. 206 and 623 were open to the defendant but that even conceding that she ought to have sought her remedy under either of those sections, her neglect to do so did not make her incapable of obtaining the same result by the exercise of her right of appeal Anusuyabai v Sakkaram Pandurang I L R 7 Bom 464 Man Singh v Narayan Das I L R 1 All 480 Mohan Lal v Ram Dayal I L R 2 All 843 Nyamat Khan v Phadu Buldia I L R 6 Calc 319 and Ram Kooer v Bhagwant Kooer 6 W R 19 referred to JAMAITUNNISSA v LUTFUNNISSA I. to them. The Court of first instance dismissed the suit on the ground that the fruit on such tree had not been removed but found incidentally that such tree belonged to the plaintiff The plaintiff appealed from the decree of the Court of first instance and the defendants objected to the decree contending that such tree belonged to them Held that inasmuch as the Court of first instance did not in deciding that such tree belonged to the plaintiff decide a question substantially in issue it did not decide in this matter against the defendants within the meaning of s 561 of the Civil Procedure Code and as the decree was limited to dismissing the suit the defendants as respondents were not qualified to take an objection which they could not have taken by way of appeal and therefore the Appellate Court was not warranted by law in entertaining the objection taken by the defendants BALAK TEWARI v KAUSIL MISR I L R. 4 All. 491

648 ———— Objections on appeal as to costs —Procedure—Notice of objections —The Court of first instance found for the defendants on the merits and passed a decree in their favour without costs The defendants appealed against that part of the decree which disallowed them their costs The plaintiff filed a notice of objections to the decree on the merits as required by s 561 of the Code of Civil Procedure (XIV of 1882) The lower Court of Appeal varied the decree by allowing the defendants their costs of suit and held that the plaintiff was not entitled to file any objections Held that the Court of Appeal was in error in holding that the plaintiff's objections could not be entertained. S 561 of the Code gives the respondent the power of taking any objection to the decree at the hearing of an appeal which he could have taken by way of appeal provided he has filed a notice of his objections not less than seven days before the date fixed for the hearing of the appeal and this power is independent of whether an appeal lies on a mere question of costs KAMAT v KAMAT I L R 8 Bom 368

The plaintiffs preferred a cross objection under s 561 of the Code of Civil Procedure The non appealing defendants were added as respondents by an order of the High Court to the effect that they might be made parties without prejudice to any objection that might be urged on their behalf at the hearing of the appeal The non appealing defendants at the hearing of the appeal contended that they were wrongly made parties and that the plaintiffs could not urge their cross objection as against them Held that as a general rule the right of a respondent to urge cross objections should be limited to his urging them against the appellant and it is only by way of exception to this general rule that one respondent may urge a cross objection against another respondent the exception holding good among other cases in those in which the appeal of some of the parties opens out questions which cannot be disposed of completely without matters being allowed to be opened up as between co respondents; but as there was nothing exceptional in this case the plaintiffs were not allowed to urge their cross-objections against the

The only limitation placed by s 423 on the powers of the Appellate Court is that the Court before disposing of the appeal must peruse the record and if the appellant is present or is represented by a pleader the appellant in person must be heard or the pleader must be heard. So held by the Full Bench (MAHMOOD J dissenting). Held by MAHMOOD J contra that the principles of audi alteram partem and ubi jus ibi remedium and the provisions of s. 422 of the Code as to notice of appeal imply that where an appeal is admitted and not summarily rejected under s 421 the appellant must have a real opportunity of being heard that in the passage in s. 423 "after perusing the record and hearing the appellant or his pleader if he appears" the word "he" refers to the pleader and must not be read as "either of them" that in any case the words "if he appears" make it a condition precedent to the disposal of an appeal under the section that the appellant is heard or at least has the choice of appearing that the word "appears" refers to the personal appearance of the appellant and that an appeal which has been admitted cannot be disposed of unless the appellant is before the Appellate Court or can be heard within the meaning of s 423. Semble per MAHMOOD J but the High Court in appeal is competent to send for a criminal to appear before it to explain a difficulty in his case. Thereupon the purchaser applied by petition to the High Court praying that the order made on review might be reversed. In his petition he submitted that "the sale ought to have been confirmed when the application of the judgment-debtor to have it set aside was first rejected, but the petition did not contain a formal prayer for confirmation of the sale. 2 PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE—continued

Admiralty Rules —By rule 35 of the rules respecting appeals from the Vice Admiralty Courts abroad made and ordained by King William IV in Council in pursuance of the Statute 2 Will IV in c 51 all appeals from the decrees of Vice Admiralty Courts are to be asserted within fifteen days after the date of the decree Held that the words after the date of the decree mean after the date when the decree is pronounced by the Admiralty or Vice Admiralty Court as the case may be not the date when the decree is reduced to writing and signed. On the 23rd July 1880 the High Court in its Appellate Jurisdiction modifying a decree of the High Court as a Court of Vice Admiralty in a cause of damage by collision referred it to the Registrar to assess the damages that had been incurred in reference to one of the ships both of which were held to be in fault The parties went without protest before the Registrar for that purpose the impugnants also having taken out process to compel the appearance of the promovents before him and the damages were assessed with the consent of both parties at a certain amount On the 2nd September 1880 a notice of appeal was given on behalf of the impugnants and was recorded as asserted pursuant to rule 35 above referred to Held that the appeal was not within time more than fifteen days having elapsed after the decree before the appeal was asserted According to the law laid down in the Vice Admiralty Courts the proceedings taken before the Registrar were themselves sufficient also to prevent an appeal as of right THE OWNERS OF THE SHIP BRENHILDA v THE BRITISH INDIA STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY I. 4 EFFECT OF PRIVY COUNCIL DECREE OR ORDER

109 ———— Effect of order of Privy Council dismissing suit on power of High Court to make orders in suit—Petition for the amendment of an order in Council dismissing a suit—Receiver's liability to account—Rights as between the Administrator General and executors transferring estate to him and the petitioner interested in the estate—Act II of 1874 s 31—A Court having appointed a receiver in a suit has authority incidental to its jurisdiction to order him to account although the suit may be no longer pending The estate is in its hands and the receiver is its officer and the dismissal of the suit by an Appellate Court does not alter that state of things The original Court in such a case may permit parties interested to intervene on questions as to the accounts and may deal with costs and other matters. In a suit by a plaintiff interested in the estate wholly based on the alleged illegality of its transfer by the executors named in the will of a Hindu to the Administrator General (Act II of 1874 s 31) decrees were made by the High Court Original and Appellate in the plaintiff s favour The Judicial Committee however held the transfer legal and the suit brought against the Administrator General and the executors as co-defendants was dismissed Held on the plaintiff s petition for such modification of the order dismissing the suit as would maintain what had been ordered below relating to the accounts thereby enabling the High Court to bring matters in dispute to an end that there were no grounds for the amendment. Their Lordships opinion was that the High Court would not be deprived of any jurisdiction in that respect by the dismissal of the suit. If it should be necessary to the carrying out of the transfer that the Administrator General should take proceedings he could do so To make orders upon the Court s receiver was within its powers and either the receiver or the executors could be called to further account without the petitioner being met by the defence of prior adjudication of the matter (s 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure) IN THE MATTER OF THE PETITION OF PREM LALL MULLICK ADMINISTRATOR GENERAL OF BENGAL v PREM LALL MULLICK I L R 22 Calc 1011 [L R 22 I A 203

1 GENERAL DUTY OF APPELLATE COURTS

1. ———— High Court Practice of—Appeal on questions of fact—Credibility of witnesses —The High Court sitting in appeal on questions of fact was guided by the same rules as those of the Privy Council when they sat upon motions for a rule for new trials from the old Supreme Court The High Court sitting in appeal will not disturb a judgment upon a question as to the credibility of witnesses unless it be manifestly clear from the probabilities attached to certain circumstances in the case that the Court was wrong in the conclusion drawn from such evidence The High Court sitting in appeal will look upon the decree of a Judge as to facts in the same light as the verdict of a jury and though some of the reasons given for the conclusion arrived at be erroneous the High Court in appeal will not say that the decree is against the weight of evidence if sufficient reason for such decree still remain HEERALALL CHUCKERBUTTY v MOHESH CHUNDER GHOSAUL 1 Hyde 105

2 ———— Privy Council Practice of—Appeal on questions of fact—The rule of the Privy Council not to disturb a judgment of a Court in India upon a question of fact unless it is clear from the probabilities of the case that the judgment is wrong however necessary as regards a Court of Appeal far removed from India would hardly be extended as one equally necessary and applicable with the same strictness to a Court of Appeal in India SARODA SOONDERY v TINCOWRY NUNDY [1 Hyde 223

lower Court as it had upon what appeared to be mere conjecture LAL MAHOMED BIFARI v SHOHA BEWA 11 C L R 104

4. ——— Jurisdiction where appeal is barred —When an appeal is barred by law an Appellate Court cannot interfere in any matter legitimately arising out of the case unless there is want of jurisdiction. KURUM CHAND KOLEEAH v HUREE MOHUN GHOSE 2 W R Mis 45

5 ——— Presumption of correctness of judgment appealed from—Duty of Judge —A Judge of appeal is not in the position of an arbitrator who has to look at the evidence on both sides and determine which is preferable He has to deal with the decision of a properly constituted Court which if not shown to be erroneous ought to be affirmed. SHETABDEE BISWAS v MOLAMDEE MUNDUL 25 W R 30

6 ——— Presumption as to facts found by lower Court—Omission to file objections under Civil Procedure Code s 561 —Where a decree is in favour of the respondent the Appellate Court is not entitled to accept the facts found by the Court of first instance as incontestably proved merely because the respondent has not filed any cross-objections to the decree under s 561 of the Code of Civil Procedure (Act XIV of 1882) BHAGOJI v BAPUJI I. L. R. 13 Bom. 75

7 ——— Credibility of witnesses—In cases turning on the credibility of witnesses the Appellate Court gives great weight to the decision of the Courts below WOMESH CHUNDER ROY v DEENDAYAL PORAMANICK 2 Hay 12

8 ——— Where credit has been given to witnesses by the Court of first instance before which they have been examined the Appellate Court is not at liberty to say that it disbelieves them without stating reasons HOYMO DASSEE v SREE KISSEN KUNDY 14 W R 58

9 ——— Dealing with documentary evidence —Where a Munsif pronounces an opinion as to the authenticity of certain documents the lower Appellate Court must assume that he did his duty and looked into each and every one of them before pronouncing such opinion On a question of simple credit to be given to a witness an Appellate Court having before it merely written depositions is not authorized to set aside the opinion of the Court of first instance which heard the witness and recorded that his demeanour was not satisfactory GOPEE NATH MOOKERJEE v BODDHUMUNT MAL [25 W R 26

See NOBIN CHUNDER POOSHALEE v RUNGO CHUNDER CHATTERJEE 25 W R 363

10 ——— Method of dealing with questions of fact in appeal.—In dealing with questions of fact which turn entirely upon evidence given on the trial the High Court ought not merely to consider whether the lower Court has come to the same conclusion as that to which it should have

12 ——— Duty of Judge to hear comments on evidence —It is the duty of the Judge of an Appellate Court to allow the parties or their pleaders to submit the evidence to him at the hearing in open Court and to make upon the evidence so submitted every comment and found upon it every argument they may think necessary LALLA JUGGESHUR SAHOY v GOPAL LALL 15 W R 54

13 ——— Duty of Appellate Court to direct examination of witnesses before reversing decree—Dismissal of suit by first Court without examining defendant s witnesses—Reversal of decree on appeal —Where a Court of first instance considering it unnecessary to examine certain witnesses for the defence dismissed the suit, and the lower Appellate Court disbelieving the evidence of those witnesses for the defence who were examined allowed the plaintiff s appeal —Held that before doing so the lower Appellate Court should have afforded the defendants an opportunity of supplementing the evidence which they had given in the first Court by the testimony of those witnesses whom that Court had declared it unnecessary to hear and that the case must be regarded as one in which the first Court had refused to examine the witnesses tendered by the defendants The Court directed the first Court to examine the defendant s witnesses and having done so to return their depositions to the lower Appellate Court which was to replace the appeal upon its file and dispose of it KHUDA BAKHSH v IMAM ALI SHAH I. L. R. 9 All. 339

14 ———Duty of Appellate Court to call the remaining witnesses before reversing the decree of first Court—Dismissal of case in first Court without hearing all the witnesses —The Subordinate Judge having heard all the witnesses for the plaintiff and some of the witnesses for the defendant intimated that he did not consider it necessary for the defendant to call any more evidence He then dismissed the suit On appeal by the plaintiff the Judge upon the recorded evidence reversed the decree and allowed the plaintiff s claim The defendant appealed to the High Court contending that the lower Court ought not to have found against him without allowing him an opportunity to call the witnesses whose evidence had been dispensed with by the Subordinate Judge Held (reversing the decree of the lower Appellate Court and remanding the case) that the lower Appellate Court ought not to have reversed the decree of the first Court without allowing the defendant to give the evidence which the 16 ———— Appellate Court s power to interfere with exercise of discretion —When an appeal against an order based on facts is given from a subordinate to a superior Court the discretion vested in the former is absorbed in the latter and it is the duty of the superior Court to weigh the facts which form the basis upon which the subordinate Court proceeds and arrive at its own independent conclusion and this is so notwithstanding that the subordinate Court exercised its discretion after a proper enquiry and due consideration of the facts put before it and not capriciously or with prejudice KIRANI AHMEDULA v SUBABHAT

The decree holder having attached certain family property in execution the mortgagor's two younger sons who had not been born at the date of the above decree objected that their shares were not liable to attachment This objection prevailed the Court expressing the opinion that the matter in controversy should be determined in a regular suit The other defendants in the suit of 1877 had both died in the interval one of them leaving infant sons.

200 ———— Application to set aside sale in execution of decree—Court reversing lower Court on evidence taken before necessary party was added—Superintendence of High Court—Civil Procedure Code s 622 —A person alleging himself to be the undivided brother and as such the legal representative of a deceased judgment debtor applied to have set aside a sale of certain property alleged by him to be joint family property which had taken place in execution of the decree He did not make the purchaser a party to such application The Court of first instance dismissed the application On appeal the Appellate Court made the purchaser a party to the proceedings and holding that there was irregularity in conducting the sale reversed the order of the Court of first instance Held that the Appellate Court was wrong in so holding upon evidence recorded by the Court of first instance when the purchaser was not a party to the proceedings and the order of the Appellate Court was set aside under s 622 of the Code SUBBARAYADU v PEDDA SUBBARAZU I. 201. ———— Want of cause of action—Grounds for rejecting plaint—Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877) s 53 —In a suit for confirmation of possession and declaration of title in respect of land where the plaint did not disclose any facts from which it could be said that the defendants denied the plaintiff s title but from the proceedings in the original cause it was established that before the suit was brought there was a dispute existing between the parties as regards the title and that a decree in favour of the plaintiffs had been passed by the original Court on the merits of the case —Held that though the plaint might have been rejected in the first instance under s 53 of the Civil Procedure Code on the ground that it did not disclose any cause of action it was too late for an Appellate Court to reverse the decree solely on that ground without being satisfied that no such cause of action was established on the evidence SHAH AHMED SUJAD v TAREE RAI I. 202. ———— Power of the Court of Appeal to vary decrees appealed from in consequence of circumstances occurring subsequently to the date of such decrees—Partition suit—Death of a co parcener pendente lite —When the decree of a subordinate Court is under appeal to the High Court it is open to the High Court to vary it either in points in which it is erroneous or in respect of matters occurring subsequently to the date of such decree which are admitted The plaintiff obtained a decree in a partition suit in the Subordinate Judge's Court for his share in certain joint family property in the possession of the defendants (his co parceners) The decree was affirmed on appeal The defendants filed a second appeal in the High Court but before it was decided one of the defendants died. The plaintiff at the hearing of the second appeal claimed a larger share in the family property than he had been awarded by the decree of the Courts below Held that he (plaintiff) was entitled to a share in that of the co parcener who died pendente lite and that the decree appealed from ought to be varied accordingly SAKHARAM MAHADEV DANGE v HARI KRISHNA DANGE

203 ———— Power to vary decree as made in the lower Court—Decree confined to rights in issue between parties—S 565 of the Code of Civil Procedure 1877 —After the trial of issues raising the question whether the plaintiff was or the defendants were entitled to zamindari rights in certain mehals a decree was made affirming the title of the plaintiff the evidence in support of the defendant s case being discredited, and the latter were declared by the decree to be the plaintiff s under tenure holders of the said mehals. This was modified on appeal by the declaration that the defendants are patnidars of the same mouzahs Held that it was unnecessary on this appeal to consider whether the Appellate Court was right in its conclusion that the defendants were patnidars because upon the case which had been set up for the defendants and upon the issues framed and tried in the lower Court the Appellate Court could not properly make such a declaration the defendants could not be in a better position than they would have been in had they claimed to be patnidars in which case an issue as to that title would have been framed and tried. S 565 of Act X of 1877 does not enable an Appellate Court to declare a right in favour of one of the parties where no issue has been fixed on the point and the right has not been set up in the lower Court OFFICIAL TRUSTEE OF BENGAL v KRISHNA CHANDRA MOZUMDAR

264. ———— Form of suit—Madras Local Boards Act (Madras Act V of 1884) s 27—An objection that the suit was not properly framed was not allowed to be taken for the first time on second appeal in a suit brought under the Madras Local Boards Act PRESIDENT OF THE TALUK BOARD v NARAYANAN I L R. 16 Mad. 317

265 ———— Fraud—Omission to allege fraud—Held that defendant could not be allowed in special appeal to object that the lower Court had not determined the bona fides of plaintiff's purchase unless he (defendant) had not only alleged fraud but shown the way in which the fraud was intended to be carried out BOIKUNTO NATH SETT v RUSSICK LALL BURMONO 10 W R. 231

266 ———— Guardian—Objection as to due appointment of guardian—Where plaintiff claimed as his inheritance what had been sold to defendants by his mother to liquidate debts due by his late father it was held first that it was too late in special appeal to raise doubts as to his mother having been plaintiff's guardian when the objection had not been taken below at any stage of the proceedings KOOL CHUNDER SURMAH v RAMJOY SURMONA 10 W R. 8

267 ———— Want of certificate—Maxim Omnia præsumuntur rite esse acta—On a suggestion taken for the first time in special appeal that a guardian has not obtained a certificate it will not be assumed for the purpose of reversing the decree that such is the case It will be presumed rather that the proceedings in the Court below have been regularly conducted until irregularity be shown THUMMUN v GOLAB RAE 2 N W 89

268 ———— Issues—Omission to raise issues—Where appellant satisfies the Court that he has been substantially injured by no issues being framed by the Judge previous to his decision effect will be given to such objection. SAH KOONDUN LALL v MAKHUN LALL [1 N W 168 Ed. 1873 247

269 ———— Jurisdiction—The defendant objected to the jurisdiction of the first Court but took no objection to the jurisdiction before the lower Appellate Court Held that objection to the jurisdiction was waived. MAHOMED HOSSEIN v AKAYA NARAYAN PAL [2 B L R., Ap 42 18 W R. 37 note

HURISH CHUNDER ROY v POORNA SOONDUREE DEBEE 18 W R. 35

270 ———— Suit brought in Court without jurisdiction—N W P Rent Act XVIII of 1873 s 206—As the plaintiff's claim instituted in the Civil Court to eject the defendant a quondam tenant and to recover mesne profits could not be entertained in any suit in any Court the provisions of s 206 of Act XVIII of 1873 that the objection that a suit was instituted in the wrong Court shall not be entertained by the Appellate Court unless such objection was taken in the Court of first instance were not applicable RAM AUTAR RAI v TALIMUNDI KUAR 7 N W 49

271. ———— Summary suit for possession—A and B obtained a decree for possession of land against C On their proceeding to execute their decree D who was in possession, presented a petition to the Munsif complaining that they were thereby attempting unlawfully to interfere with his possession The case was tried on remand from the Judge as a suit under the provisions of s 229 of Act VIII of 1859 Held per JACKSON J that as the decree holder had not complained that the officer of the Court had been obstructed or resisted by the claimant the case did not fall within s. 229 of Act VIII of 1859 and therefore the Court had not jurisdiction to take summary cognizance of the case Per MITTER J—This objection taken for the first time on special appeal did not affect the merits of the case or the jurisdiction of the Court BUHAL SINGH CHOWDRY v BEHARI LALL [1 B L R. A. C, 206 10 W R. 318

272. ———— Objection to suit for mesne profits as being matter for execution—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) s 244—A landlord sued his tenant for arrears of rent and obtained a decree for a certain amount and a declaration that if the amount were not paid within fifteen days the tenant should be ejected under s 52 Act VIII of 1869 The amount was not paid and the landlord executed the decree and obtained possession The tenant appealed and succeeded in getting the decree set aside and the amount found due from him for arrears by the first Court was reduced and a decree made directing that if the reduced amount were not paid within fifteen days, he should be ejected He paid the amount found due by the Appellate Court within the fifteen days and recovered possession of his holding He then brought a suit in the Munsif's Court to recover mesne profits from his landlord for the time he was in possession after the execution of the first Court's decree It was contended on second appeal that the suit would not lie as the matter might and should have been determined in the execution department under s 244 of the Civil Procedure Code Held that as the suit was instituted in the Munsif's Court and the Munsif under the circumstances of the case was the officer who in the first instance would have had to determine the matter in the execution department there was at most only an error of procedure and no exercise of jurisdiction by the Munsif which he did not possess and that upon the authority of the decision in Parmessuree Pershad Narain Singh v Jankee Kooer 19 W R 90 this could not be made a ground of objection on appeal Held also that the point being one that was not raised in the pleadings or before either of the lower Courts and being a point which went exclusively to the jurisdiction of the Court it could not be raised on second appeal AZIZUDDIN HOSSEIN v RAMANUGRA ROY [I. 284 ——— Landlord and tenant—Suit to have pottah cancelled —Where a plaintiff sued to have the defendants pottah cancelled on the ground of fraud to restrain them from felling trees and for a declaration that a certain shola was Government property —Held that having failed to establish the grounds upon which relief was claimed the plaintiff was n t entitled to object on appeal for the first time that the defendants were merely tenants from year to year SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA v NUNJA I. L. R. 5 Mad. 163

285 ——— Limitation—Possession — Where a defendant in the l wer Court pleaded limit ation but placed that issue upon the simple fact that he himself had possession for twelve years and upwards which issue was found against him —Held that it was t o late for the defendant in special appeal to object that that finding did not dispose of the issue of limitation KISTO MOHUN KURMOKAR v NOYAN TARA DOSSEE 10 W R 389

286 ——— Minority—Right of member of family to alienate —A plaintiff obtained a decree to set aside an alienation of ancestral property effected by his father during his min r ity Defendant objected in special appeal first that the suit was barred by lapse of time since plaintiff attained his maj rity and secondly that under the Mitakshara law the father had a right to alienate a share of the property Held that as the first of these objections was entirely a matter of fact and as the second though essentially a matter of law went to the substance of the plaintiff s claim they should have been urged in the lower Courts and could not be admitted for the first time in special appeal BENODE PUTNAIK v DOYANIDHEE BULLIOR SINGH [9 W R 493

287 ——— Settlement — In the first Court an issue was raised whether or not the hearing of this suit was barred by the law of limitation One of the grounds of appeal to the Judge was that the Principal Sudder Ameen ought to have held the suit barred as regards the diaras under the special limitation of three years from the date of the Collector s settlement The Judge did not notice this ground in his ju lgment The same ground of appeal was repeated in the special appeal to the High Court but that Court refused to entertain it for the reason that it di l n t appear to have been rais d in argument bef re the Judge or in the first C urt RAI KUNWAR alias SHEOMURAT KUNWAR v INDERJIT KUNWAR [5 B. 318. ——— Suit on bond as asset purchased —A plaintiff who had purchased a factory from the Official Assignee sued for the recovery of money on a bond alleged to have been an asset of his purchase and obtained a decree In appeal it was objected for the first time that plaintiff had not filed any evidence to prove that the bond formed part of the assets of the factory and his suit was dismissed. Held that the objection ought not to have been allowed to prevail so far as to dismiss the suit but the plaintiff ought to have an opportunity given him of adducing the requisite proof CHUNDER COOMAR ROY v KUBEERODDEEN 10 W R. 332

319 ——— Rent suit for—Rate of arrears of rent —Where a landlord s claim for arrears of rent at enhanced rates was dismissed in toto by the first Court and in his appeal to the Judge he advanced no claim for arrears at the old rates he cannot in special appeal object to the Judge's decision on the ground that such arrears were not decreed to him BEEJOY GOBIND BURAL v JANNOBEE BURMONYA [8 W R. 252

320 ——— Raising new plea on special appeal —In a suit for enhancement of rent which was dismissed in the lower Court where the sole issue raised was the genuineness of a pottah pleaded by the defendant —Held that an entirely new plea of misconstruction of the terms of the lease could not be admitted in special appeal when the facts on which alone it could be supported had not been found in the lower Court SATOORAM MAJOOMDAR v PREONATH BANERJEE 10 W R 424

321 ——— Res judicata—Act X of 1877 (Civil Procedure Code) s 542—Raising new plea in special appeal —Held that not only may the plea of res judicata though not taken in the memorandum of appeal be entertained in second appeal under the provisions of s 542 of Act X of 1877 but that even when such plea has not been urged in either of the lower Courts or in the memorandum of appeal if raised in the second appeal it must be considered and determined either upon the record as it stands or after a remand for findings of fact MUHAMMAD ISMAIL v CHATTAR SINGH I. 332. ———— Suit for declaratory decree —Wrongful distraint —A suit was brought against the plaintiff by his tenants for an illegal distress in attaching crops raised by them on the land let to them by him. The present defendant in the course of that suit presented a petition to the Court in which he stated that he was the owner of the land on which the crops attached had been raised. The plaintiff brought the present suit for a declaration of his title and confirmation of possession alleging that the defendant's statement affected his (plaintiff's) title by throwing a cloud over it. On special appeal it was objected for the first time that the plaint disclosed no cause of action and the objection was admitted and prevailed. JAN ALI v. KHONKAR ABDUR RUHMA 6 B L. R. 154 14 W R. 420

333 ———— Suit for declaratory decree—Possession —In a suit merely for a declaration of right in respect of certain property the lower Appellate Court considering that the suit was really one for the possession of such property allowed the plaintiff to make up the full amount of Court fees required for a suit for possession. The plaint in the suit was not amended and the lower Appellate Court eventually gave the plaintiff a declaratory decree. Held on second appeal by the defendant who objected that a suit merely for a declaratory decree could not be maintained, that such objection ought not to be allowed under the circumstances. 6 ——————— Contract Act ss 60 74—In consideration of an advance of R118 the defendant executed, in favour of the plaintiff, a mortgage-bond, dated 3rd November 1879, by which it was stipulated that the amount should be repaid in kind by delivery of half the amount of the rubbi crops of every description produced at the first-class rates, and in case the same is not paid in kind it will be paid principal with interest from the date of execution at one anna per cent. per mensem in cash in the month of Baisakh 1287 F S (April 1880). The defendants admitted execution of the bond and pleaded payments in grain to the amount of R130, which they failed to prove. It was found that the plaintiff had received payments in grain to the extent of R71, more than half of which however he claimed to be entitled to appropriate to the payment of other antecedent debts which were due to him by the defendants. It was not stated at the time of payment towards which debt the payments were to be applied but all the payments were admittedly made in kind. Held that the plaintiff was not entitled to appropriate the payments to the antecedent debts inasmuch as, within the meaning of s 60 of the Contract Act there were other circumstances indicating that the payments were made in liquidation of the amount of the bond. SUNGUT LAL v BAIJNATH ROY

I. L. R. 13 Calc 164

7 ——————— Contract Act (IX of 1872) s 60—Creditor's appropriation of payments to one or other of debts—One of two mortgages bore interest at 12 per cent on the mortgage debt payable with costs and the other carried simple interest. Payments made by the debtor had been appropriated by the creditor to payment of the interest on the bond bearing simple interest while the compound interest on the other hand had been left to accumulate. In a suit brought against the representative of the debtor after his decease to enforce the mortgage bearing compound interest the objection was taken to the appropriation by the creditor. Held that the rule in s 60 of the Indian Contract Act 1872 follows the ordinary law in prescribing a rule as to the case in which the creditor may at his discretion apply to one or other of the debts due to him payments made by the debtor. A reluctance shown by the debtor to agree to pay compound interest before he executed the mortgage bond at such interest was not an indication within that section that he intended that application of his payments should be made first to that bond. the age and number of the sharers Held that such order was a decree within the meaning of ss. – and 5– of Act X of 1877 that the arbitrator should himself have drawn such lots or he should have made the parties draw them but inasmuch as it would not have strained the agreement to have had such lots drawn in Court and no objection had been taken to the arbitrator not having himself drawn them it was not incumbent on the Court to have remitted the award in order that the arbitrator might have drawn them that the Court however should not have distributed such lots in the manner it had done but should have drawn a lot for each person and in acting as it had done it had acted contrary to the award and for that reason its decree could not be maintained and that in confirming the award before the accounts had been settled and an award made in respect thereof the Court had acted erroneously inasmuch as the award had left undetermined a very important matter in the settlement of the accounts and the Court should under s 520 of Act X of 1877 have remitted the award for the reconsideration of the arbitrator and as it had the power to remit it upon such terms as it thought fit the Court could have allowed one year if necessary for the settlement of the accounts and on this account and also because the Court had made an order postponing the settlement of the accounts and thereby made an order contrary to and in excess of the award its decree must be reversed. 80 ———— Appointment of new arbitrator Power of—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) ss 506 508 510 521—On 19th June 1884 an application for an order of reference was made under s. 506 of the Civil Procedure Code (XIV of 1882) by both parties to a suit It was signed by both defendants and by the plaintiffs pleader As the plaintiffs pleader had not been specially authorized in writing to join in the application the Court postponed making any order on the application till the 23rd idem. On that day the first defendant did not attend the Court but the plaintiffs pleader produced the requisite authority and the Court made an order referring the suit to the decision of the arbitrator nominated in the application of the 19th On 27th June the first defendant made an application to the Court to revoke the authority of the arbitrator and appoint a new arbitrator in his place on the ground that after signing the application of the 19th he had become aware of certain circumstances connected with the arbitrator which showed that he was not worthy of the confidence reposed in him No final order was made upon this application till after the submission of the award when it was rejected on the ground that the charges of misconduct and partiality imputed to the arbitrator were not made out Held first that the first defendant not having objected to the appointment of the arbitrator on or before the 23rd June 1884 when the order of reference was made must be taken to have tacitly acquiesced in the course adopted by the Court and that such acquiescence amounted to a fresh submission Ardesar Hormosji Wadia v Secretary of State for India 9 Bom 177 and Sreenath Ghose v Raj Chunder Paul 8 W R 171 followed. The objections raised by the first defendant could only be considered after the submission of the award and then only to the extent permitted by s. 521 of the Code of Civil Procedure (XIV of 1882) When once a matter is referred to arbitration it is not competent to the Court under the second paragraph of s 508 of the Code of Civil Procedure (Act XIV of 1882) to deal with the matter in difference between the parties except as provided in Ch XXXVII of the Code There is no section of that chapter which authorizes the Court to revoke the authority conferred on an arbitrator and to appoint a new one except in cases falling strictly within the purview of s 510 of the Code where the scope and object of the reference cannot be executed. It is only in those cases apparently that the authority conferred on arbitrators can be revoked ' for good cause the cause being such as is contemplated in that section as where an arbitrator refuses or neglects, or becomes incapable to act or leaves British India under circumstances showing that he will probably not return to India at an early date The enactment of the second paragraph of s 508 of the Code of 1882 which does not occur in the corresponding section (315) of Act VIII of 1859 has the effect of rigidly restricting the Courts to the exact procedure laid down when dealing with cases in which the appointment of a new arbitrator becomes necessary HALIMBHAI KARIMBHAI v SHANKAR SAI I. 127 ——— Civil Procedure Code s 521 cl (a)—"Misconduct" of arbitrator—The word misconduct as used in s 521 cl (a) of the Civil Procedure Code should be interpreted in the sense in which it is used in English law with reference to arbitration proceedings It does not necessarily imply moral turpitude but it includes neglect of the duties and responsibilities of the arbitrators and of what Courts of Justice expect from them before allowing finality to their awards An arbitrator to whom the matters in difference in a suit were referred under s 508 of the Civil Procedure Code and who was directed by the order of reference to deliver his award by the 22nd September applied on the 17th September for an extension of time on the ground that a very full investigation was necessary which it was not possible to make within the prescribed period On the 20th September without waiting for the order of the Court he notified to the parties that he proposed to hold an inquiry in the case on the 24th and it appeared that he did not expect this intimation to reach them before the 21st or 22nd. On the 23rd he informed the plaintiff s pleader that a new date would be fixed for the inquiry of which notice would be given to the parties Notwithstanding this on the 23rd the arbitrator took evidence for the defendant in the absence of the plaintiff and his pleader All these proceedings were held before the arbitrator received an order of the Court extending the time for delivery of the award up to the 26th October On the 27th September he directed the parties to be informed that the investigation would be held on the 5th October On the 4th October the plaintiff presented a petition praying the arbitrator to summon witnesses and to take documentary evidence and upon this nothing definite was settled at the time but after the pleaders had left the arbitrator passed an order rejecting the petition on the ground that the evidence sought to be produced was unnecessary On the same date and on the 5th and 6th October he took evidence for the defence in the absence of the plaintiff and his pleader On the 10th he rejected a petition by the plaintiff praying for further time to produce evidence and complaining of his having taken evidence in the plaintiff s absence and having received in evidence a fabricated document On the 25th October the arbitrator delivered his award in favour of the defendant Subsequently upon objections made by the plaintiff the Court set aside the award and directed that the trial of the suit should proceed Held that although no case of corruption within the meaning of s 521 cl (a) of the Civil Procedure Code had been made out against the arbitrator the circumstances above stated amounted to misconduct and the award was therefore bad in law and had rightly been set aside Soobal Thakur Opadeeah v Punchanund Tikka S D A Bengal 1849 p 115 Reedoy Kristo Mozoomdar v Puddo Luchun Mujumdar 1 W R 12 Sada Ram v Beharee S D A N W 1864 Vol 2 p 399 Paru Dass v Khoobee S D A N W 1861 Vol 2 p 199 Howard v Wilson I L R 4 Calc 231 Bhagirath v Ram Ghulam I L R 4 All 283 Wazir Mahton v Lalit Singh I L R 7 Calc 166 Nainsukh Rai v Umadai I L R 7 All 273 and Pestonjee Nusserwanjee v Manockjee 12 Moore s I A 112 distinguished GUNGA SAHAI v LEKHRAJ SINGH I. They surrounded it arrested the accused, and then searched his house The police had no search warrants, nor was there anything to show upon what charge the accused was arrested. Two gun stocks some ammunition, and implements for reloading were discovered in the house There was nothing to show that the sanction required by s 29 of the Arms Act was given before proceedings were instituted against the accused. Accused was convicted and sentenced under ss 19 and 20 of the Arms Act Held that the conviction under s 20 was not sustainable but that the accused must be taken to have had arms and ammunition as defined by the Arms Act within the meaning of sub s (f) of s 19 of that Act, and the conviction under that section must be confirmed. Held further that with respect to the question of whether or not any previous sanction had been given under s 29 of the Arms Act the Court was not unmindful of the suggestion that the charge in this case was in the first instance in respect of an alleged offence under s 20 and not of one under s. 19 but that ss 19 and 20 were so interwoven that it was difficult to see how an offence could be committed under the first paragraph of s 20 unless an offence under one of the enumerated sub-sections in s. 19 had also been committed It was not suggested that the charge here was an offence under the second paragraph of s 20 AHMED HOSSEIN v QUEEN EMPRESS I. A pension guaranteed payable by the latter by a treaty obligation contracted with another sovereign power is in the strictest sense a political pension An allowance payable by the Government of India under an arrangement made between the King of Oudh and the Governor General in 1842 for the benefit of members of the King's family and household and their respective heirs in perpetuity and payable to one of such heirs who has inherited it as his share in the interest in the Oudh loan of 1842 is a political pension within the meaning of s 266 sub s (g) Civil Procedure Code 1882 The arrangement of 1842 cannot be treated as merely a provision out of the King's private estate for the maintenance of members of his family there having been in a State like that of Oudh no distinction between State property and private property vested in the sovereign. Bishambar Nath v Imdad Ali Khan

He attained majority in October 1895 At the date of suit D was eighteen years old and P was twenty five. It was contended that the widow was only a trustee of the rents for the benefit of her sons P and D On the 13th June 1895 the plaintiffs obtained a decree for R3 976 10-10 against the widow and her son P In execution of that decree they attached under an order dated 2nd July 1895 the immoveable properties which had belonged to the testator's estate on the ground that both the widow and P had an interest in them The attachment was issued under s. 274 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) The defendants contended that the widow had no attachable interest at all in the said properties she being under the will merely a trustee as above mentioned for her sons and that if she had it was an interest in moveable property which should have been attached under s. 268 of the Code and that the attachment under s. 274 was ineffectual and inoperative They further alleged that by an assignment dated the 20th February 1896 she had assigned and surrendered her life interest to her son D and that such interest was therefore not available to satisfy the plaintiff s decree against her As to P s interest the defendants alleged that by a deed of settlement dated the 9th February 1895 it was validly settled for the benefit of himself and his family and that therefore he had no interest in him which could be attached under the order of the 2nd July 1895. Held (1) that the widow had an attachable interest in the property ( ) That her interest was an interest in immoveable property and was validly attached under s. 274 of the Civil Procedure Code (3) That her assignment of the 20th February 1896 was invalid as against the plaintiffs under s. 276 of the Civil Procedure Code NATHA KERRA v DHUNBAIJI

By law and usage a certain relationship grows up between certain pilgrims or worshippers and a particular priest and when such relationship exists such pilgrims or worshippers are called yajmans or clients of the priest whose right to offer and perform the religious ceremonies in question for such yajmans becomes exclusive against rival priests so far that under the Hindu law as applied and followed in this Presidency if any such yajmans accept the religious services of another priest they must compensate the priest whose yajmans they are by giving to him a reasonable fee Held that such a vritti is a right of personal service within the meaning of cl (f) of s 266 of the Code of Civil Procedure (XIV of 1882) and therefore protected from attachment. 133 ———— Attachment before judgment of Company's property—Winding up Company—Suit against Manager of Company—Company not a party to the suit—Remedy of liquidator—Appeal—Civil Procedure Code (1882) ss 283 483 487 588 and 622—The Dhulia Manufacturing Company Limited, carried on business at Dhulia and had its registered office at Bombay One M was the manager at Dhulia and he had authority to borrow money and draw hundis on behalf of the company In August 1894 the directors opened negotiations for the sale of the company's factory to one H and in September 1894 while the negotiations were pending a special resolution was passed to wind up the company voluntarily The resolution was confirmed in October 1894 and A was appointed liquidator under s 177 of the Indian Companies Act (VI of 1882) In December 1894 the liquidator agreed to sell the factory to H for the said sum of R38 000 Under the agreement H was to enter into possession of the factory but the company was to have a lien upon it until the completion of the purchase which was to take place in May 1895 A month before the date fixed for the completion of the sale the plaintiff filed a suit in the Court of the first class Subordinate Judge of Dhulia against M the manager of the company in his individual capacity and as manager of the company His claim was professedly against the company but he did not make the company which was then in liquidation a party to the suit Subsequently the plaintiff applied for and obtained an order for attachment before judgment of the company's factory at Dhulia No notice of the application or of the order made on it was given to the liquidator He at once applied to the Court to raise the attachment contending that the Court had no power to attach the property of the company which was not a party to the suit The Court made the company a party and dismissed the liquidator's application confirming its previous order for attachment The liquidator appealed to the High Court Held that the order of attachment should be reversed The intended sale by the liquidator which was the sole reason for making the order was not with intent to obstruct any decree that the plaintiff might obtain against the company but was being effected by the liquidator in the course of his duty and in pursuance of a contract entered into long before the suit was instituted. The plaintiff's claim if established would be satisfied pari passu with the other debts of the company The plaintiff was not entitled to security for his claim in preference to the other creditors It was contended that no appeal lay against the order of the Subordinate Judge and that the liquidator's sole remedy was by suit under ss 283 and 487 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) Held that the company having been made a party to the suit the order of attachment was made under s 483 of the Civil Procedure Code and consequently under s. 588 an appeal lay from that order If the company had not been made a party the High Court would have set aside the order of attachment under s 622 of the Code as in that case the Subordinate Judge would have had no jurisdiction to make it MIR ALI MAHOMED PATEL v BIHARILAL SUKLAL [I. The master being about to leave the jurisdiction of the Court with his vessel the plaintiffs under s 477 of the Code of Civil Procedure applied for an order that the defendant should give security for his appearance to answer any decree that might be passed against him and a rule was issued calling on him to show cause why such security should not be furnished. The defendant showed cause and alleged that the amount claimed for the repairs was excessive that the repairs were badly done that the plaintiffs were not entitled to dock hire and that some of the repairs charged for had not been executed. He further counterclaimed for a large sum for demurrage owing to the detention of his vessel and damages caused to it by the wrongful act of the plaintiffs It was contended that as the claim was on a contested account which on the face of it was stated but unsettled on the principle of the English authorities the plaintiffs were not entitled to the order asked for It was further contended that the suit was not a bond fide one but brought merely to harass the defendant and that for this reason security should not be ordered to be given It was not disputed that the defendant had no domicile in this country and that he was shortly leaving in his vessel in the ordinary course of his business The Court found the plaintiffs were undoubtedly entitled to recover some amount on account of repairs and that the mere fact that the plaintiffs added on to such a claim one of a disputable character did not go to show that the suit was not a bond fide one Held that there is no authority for saying that the principles applied in England to the granting of writs ne exeat regno should be applied in this country that the Court can only look to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure that when a person comes on business to this country in which he has no property or domicile and enters into a contract with a person to do work in connection with that business and which must be done before he leaves the country and it is known he intends to leave as soon as the work is completed there is an implied understanding if the work was done on his credit that it should be paid for before he leaves. Held also that the case fell within the provisions of s 477 of the Code and that the defendant should furnish security for his appearance while the suit was pending within a week in terms of s 479 such security to be for the amount of the claim. Meanwhile in December 1885 a decree for pre-emption in respect of a sale by the judgment-debtors in 1881 of their muafi interests in the village was decreed in favour of persons who were not parties to the litigation in which the attachment of 1884 was effected. The plaintiffs (who were in possession) sued for a declaration of their right to the muafi interests as against the auction purchaser under the sale of January 1886. Held that the attachment in 1884 was not a good attachment of the muafi interests of the judgment debtors, and the auction purchaser could not be held to have purchased those muafi interests and the title of the plaintiffs under their pre-emptive decree of December 1885 must prevail. 205. ——— Attachment before judgment—Termination of attachment—Sale in execution—Material irregularity in publishing or conducting sale without attachment—Waiver—Civil Procedure Code, ss. 311, 483.—The plaintiff instituted a suit against the defendant for recovery of money and previous to judgment that is on the 8th January 1885 applied for and on the 11th obtained orders for attachment of several houses and premises belonging to defendant and such attachment was made. The suit was dismissed but eventually on appeal it was decreed but the attachment was never withdrawn. Plaintiff then applied for execution of his decree and his application was granted by an order directing that the property of the judgment-debtor should be notified for sale on the 1st February 1887 and accordingly on the 21st December 1886 a sale notification was issued. Judgment debtor twice applied for postponement of sale but his applications were refused and the sale took place on the date fixed. The judgment debtor then objected to the confirmation of the sale urging that the property sold was never attached in execution of the decree and the attachment previous to judgment was infructuous because afterwards the claim was dismissed by the Court of first instance that there had been several other irregularities in publishing and conducting the sale; and that owing to the irregularities property had been sold at a grossly inadequate price causing substantial injury. The Subordinate Judge overruling the objections confirmed the sale. On appeal by the judgment-debtor.—Held following Mahadeo Dubey v. Bhola Nath Dichit, I. L. R. 5 All. 86 that a regularly perfected attachment is an essential preliminary to sales in execution of decrees for money and where there has been no such attachment any sale that may have taken place is not simply voidable but de facto void and may be set aside without any inquiry as to substantial injury being sustained by the judgment debtor for want of a valid attachment; and that an attachment before judgment like a temporary injunction becomes functus officio as soon as the suit terminates. Further that the phrase "a material irregularity in publishing or conducting" in the first paragraph of s. 311 of the Code of Civil Procedure should be liberally construed and that absence of attachment of property at the time of sale thereof is a material irregularity, attachment being the first step which a Court in executing a simple money decree has to take to assert its authority to bring property to compulsory sale. 8. LIABILITY FOR WRONGFUL ATTACHMENT

254. ———— Claim to attach property—Civil Procedure Code, ss. 278, 283, 483—Attachment before judgment—Liability of creditor who caused attachment of goods not belonging to the debtor—Damages after sale—Difference between English and Indian law on the subject.—Orders for attachment in security under s. 483 of the Civil Procedure Code being issued on the ex parte application of the creditor, who is bound to specify the property which he desires to have attached and its estimated value, it follows that the attachment is the direct act of the creditor for which he is immediately responsible. Should the goods be proved not to belong to the debtor the litigation and delay and also any depreciation of the goods by an intermediate fall in the market between attachment and sale are the natural and necessary consequences of the creditor's unlawful act. The plaintiff having taken without success the summary proceeding under s. 278 to get the release of goods attached under s. 487 in a suit to which he was not a party, afterwards in a suit brought by him in accordance with s. 283 established his right of property in the goods. Held that (a) in order to entitle him to the full indemnity for the wrongful attachment he was not bound to allege and prove that the defendants had resisted his previous application under s. 278 maliciously or without probable cause; and that (b) the goods having been sold under the Court's order, the difference in market value of the goods at the time of their attachment (November 1883) and their price when they were sold (June 1884), the selling prices having fallen intermediately, must be added to the damages. Held also that, without bringing under review the judgment under s. 278, the effect of the judgment in the suit brought in accordance with s. 283 was to supersede the order under s. 278 and to render it inconclusive. The procedure on attachment not being the same in India as in England, where a judgment creditor is not responsible for the consequence of a sale, under a judicial order, of goods taken in execution in satisfaction of his debt, that proposition does not hold good under the Indian procedure, and Walker v Olding, 1 H & C 621; 9 Jur N S 53; 32 L J Exch 142, is inapplicable to the latter. 9. STRIKING OFF EXECUTION PROCEEDINGS, EFFECT OF, ON ATTACHMENT

255. ———— Effect of striking off execution proceedings, how it affects attachment.—The striking an execution proceeding off the file is an act which may admit of different interpretations according to the circumstances under which it is done, and no general rule can be laid down which would govern all cases of that kind; but having regard to the circumstances of the present case, viz. that the Court below had no opportunity of considering the circumstances under which the several execution proceedings were dismissed, it could not be held that there was no subsisting attachment, and that the order of the Court was bad in law. question is, whether property bought and held in the name of another than the party claiming as the real purchaser is the property of that other or merely bought and held in his name (benami) for the claimant, the criterion is to consider from what source the purchase-money came; the presumption is that a purchase made with the money of A in the name of B is for the benefit of A and where the purchase is by a father whether Mahomedan or Hindu in the name of his son, there is no presumption of an advancement in favour of the son Upon the facts the decision of the Court below reversed. 46. ———— Benami purchase—Whether property was held benami for the claimant or was a gift to the holder—Evidence of ownership—Source of purchase-money —The claimant having supplied the purchase money on the sale of the village in suit took the transfer by sale deed in the name of the first defendant who remained in possession of it, receiving rents The claim was for proprietary possession by the purchaser on the ground that the property was held benami for him The first Court decreed the claim. The Appellate Court reversed this decision. The first Court had attributed too much to the fact that the plaintiff had supplied the purchase-money—an important fact in most of the cases raising the question of benami or not benami but not the only test of ownership Here the source of that money was consistent with the claimant's having as the defence alleged intended to make a gift of the property to the holder of it and the right inference from the fact was that it was not held benami for the claimant but belonged to the defendant. It was contended at the hearing of that rule that the High Court should not interfere at that stage of the proceedings under its revisional jurisdiction Held that the High Court has power to interfere at any stage of a case and that when it is brought to its notice that a person has been subjected as in this case for over two months to the harassment of an illegal prosecution it is its bounden duty to interfere Held further that it was quite clear that the Municipality had no power to institute the proceedings and that having regard to the provisions of s. 191 of the Code of Criminal Procedure it did not appear that the Deputy Magistrate having no private complainant before him had power of his own motion to institute them; but that whether he had such power or not the admitted facts of the case did not in law constitute any of the offences with which C was charged and that the whole proceedings must be quashed. The Municipal Act is intended to be complete in itself as regards offences committed against the Municipal Commissioners and there is no indication of any intention to render a delinquent also liable to punishment under the Penal Code There is no penalty in the Act attached to the omission to make a return under s 133 and no words in the Act constituting the making a false return a penal offence and as there are no such words in the Act as are necessary to make the provisions of the Penal Code applicable the Court has no power to import them The Municipal Commissioners in such a case have the remedy provided by the Act itself CHANDI PERSHAD v ABDUR RAHMAN [I. Chairman of the Motihari Municipality I. L. R. 17 Calc. 329* approved. A landowner on whose land a market had been held for some years previous and which land lay within the bounds of a municipality was prosecuted under s 344 of the Bengal Municipal Act and convicted and fined for using such market without having obtained a license under s 338. He alleged that he had applied for a license, and that it had not been granted him and that the neglect to grant it was due to the fact that his market interfered with a new market established by the Municipal Commissioners and their desire to close his market. It appeared that some time previous to the institution of the prosecution the Municipal Commissioners at a meeting passed a resolution that the provisions of s 337 of the Municipal Act (Bengal Act III of 1884) be extended to this municipality and it was contended that by this resolution licenses became necessary to sell at any market any of the provisions mentioned in that section and that selling without such license rendered the accused liable to prosecution and fine under s 344. It appeared further that Part X of the Act which includes s. 337 had been previously extended to the municipality by an order of the Government of Bengal. Held that the resolution of the Commissioners was not an order such as is contemplated by s 337 as it was not sufficiently precise to convey any definite meaning and purported only to do what the Bengal Government had already done some time previously. Held further that the conviction and sentence must be set aside there being no proper order under s 337.
